STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

The object of the Bill is to give effect to the financial proposals of the Central Government for the financial year 1965-66 and to provide for certain connected matters. The Bill, inter alia, proposes the grant of tax credit certificates for certain purposes. This is being done with a view to stimulating industrial output and investment in new equity issues and for the purpose of facilitating dispersal of existing industries from urban areas to other areas for relieving congestion. The Notes on clauses explain the various provisions contained in the Bill.

NEW DELHI;
The 27th February 1965

T. T. KRISHNAMACHARI.

Notes on clauses

Clause 2 prescribes the rates of income-tax and surcharge on income-tax (wherever leviable) for the assessment year 1965-66 for income other than capital gains, and also the rates at which income-tax and surcharge (where leviable) are to be deducted at source from interest on securities, dividends and other income during the financial year 1965-66. As the provision relating to the charge of super-tax has been removed from the Income-tax Act, 1961 under various amendments to that Act incorporated in this Bill, no levy of super-tax has been prescribed for the assessment year 1965-66. The element of super-tax has, however, been integrated in the new rate structure of income-tax prescribed in the Bill.

In the rate schedule of income-tax for individuals, Hindu undivided families, unregistered firms and associations of persons etc., the income slabs have been regraded and the rates of tax for the first and the top slabs, as well as for several intermediary slabs of income, have been reduced from those applicable for the assessment year 1964-65. Unlike under the rate schedules of income-tax for the assessment year 1964-65, which contain an initial slab of income free of income-tax, the rate schedule for the assessment year 1965-66 does not contain any initial slab of income exempt from income-tax. However, in the case of individuals and Hindu undivided families (other than non-residents), provision has been made for reduction of the tax calculated on the total income by a specified amount of tax relief on account of personal allowances. The amount of this tax relief has been calculated at the rate of income-tax on the first slab of income on various amounts of personal allowances, which are higher than the initial slabs of income exempt from income-tax in the case of individuals and Hindu undivided families under the Finance Act, 1964. The amount of unearned income not liable to surcharge for the assessment year 1965-66 is Rs. 15,000 as compared with Rs. 10,000 under the Finance Act, 1964. Further, the rates of surcharge on the income-tax on unearned income for 1965-66 have been prescribed on the basis of slabs of such income (instead of for ranges of unearned income as under the Finance Act, 1964), and the tax on the first slab of unearned income of Rs. 15,000 is free of surcharge in all cases. The rates of surcharge on the tax on the next slab of unearned income of Rs. 35,000, i.e., upto Rs. 50,000, is 20 per cent., and on the balance it is 25 per cent. In the case of individuals and Hindu undivided families, interest on Government securities is free from the surcharge in respect of unearned income, but it is liable to the surcharge leviable in respect of earned income. As regards surcharge on the tax on earned income, the first slab of such income upto Rs. 1 lakh remains free of surcharge as under the Finance Act, 1964, but the rate for the next slab of Rs. 1 lakh upto Rs. 2 lakhs has been fixed at 5 per cent. (instead of 10 per cent. as under the Finance Act, 1964), on the next Rs. 1 lakh upto Rs. 3 lakhs, it is 10 per cent., and for the balance of the earned income, it is 15 per cent.

Non-residents as well as assessees who are resident but not ordinarily resident in India will be charged to tax for the assessment year 1965-66 on their income assessable in India in the same manner as resident assessees, but non-residents will not be entitled to any tax relief on account of personal allowances.

In the case of registered firms, the rates of income-tax are the same as for the assessment year 1964-65. The general rate of surcharge on income-tax is 20 per cent., but in the case of a registered firm whose income from profession is 51 per cent. or more of its total income, the surcharge will be reduced by one-half.

In the case of co-operative societies, a separate rate schedule of income-tax has been prescribed, because in their case super-tax was charged under the Finance Act, 1964 at a concessional rate. In their case, a single surcharge on income-tax will be levied in respect of income exceeding Rs. 25,000 at a uniform rate of 6¼ per cent., instead of three surcharges leviable under the Finance Act, 1964, viz., the surcharge on income-tax on unearned income and earned income, and surcharge on super-tax.

In the case of companies, the rate of income-tax (as consolidated with super-tax) has been fixed at 80 per cent. (made up of pre-integration income-tax, 25 per cent. plus super-tax 55 per cent.), but this is subject to various rebates on different types of income, corresponding to the rebates of super-tax admissible under the Finance Act, 1964. In the case of companies in which the public are not substantially interested and which are wholly or mainly engaged in the business of manufacture or production of goods or construction of ships or in mining or the generation or distribution of electricity, the rate of tax on the first Rs. 10 lakhs of their income has been fixed at 50 per cent., and on the balance of the income it will be 60 per cent. (Under the Finance Act, 1964, the rate of tax on the first Rs. 2 lakhs of the income of companies of the above category whose total income did not exceed Rs. 5 lakhs was 50 per cent.; and on the balance, it was 60 per cent.). In the case of all other companies, the rates of income-tax are the same as for the assessment year 1964-65.

The special rebate of tax provided under the Finance Act, 1964 on income derived by companies (other than those which do not declare their dividends in India) from the manufacture or production of specified articles of priority and basic industries, equivalent to 10 per cent. of the normal tax, is being continued for the assessment year 1965-66. The area of this benefit has been enlarged by the addition of several new items in the list of such articles, which is contained in Part III of the First Schedule to the Bill.

The rates at which tax is to be deducted at source from the income of non-residents during the financial year 1965-66 has been fixed at 30 per cent, or the amount of income-tax and surcharge on income-tax calculated on the whole of the income liable to such deduction at the rates prescribed in the rate schedule of income-tax in Paragraph A of Part I of the First Schedule to the Bill, whichever is higher. This compares with the rate for deduction of tax at source at 48·375 per cent. (subject to a higher deduction on account of super-tax where the income attracts super-tax in accordance with the rate schedule applicable to resident assessees at a rate higher than 19 per cent.) which was prescribed under the Finance Act, 1964. In the case of resident assessees and companies, the rate for deduction of tax at source for the financial year 1965-66 is the same as for the financial year 1964-65.

The basis and the quantum of tax rebates in relation to exports for the assessment year 1965-66 are the same as for the assessment year 1964-65.

Clause 3 prescribes the rates at which annuity deposits in respect of the assessment year 1965-66 and advance annuity deposits for the financial year 1965-66 will be required to be made by individuals, Hindu undivided families, unregistered firms, associations of persons, etc. under the provisions of Chapter XXIIA of the Income-tax Act.

(40 per cent. in the case of an industrial company) are held by another company in which the public are substantially interested or by a 100 per cent. subsidiary of such a company will be regarded as a company in which the public are substantially interested, if it satisfies other conditions of section 2(18). Further, in ascertaining whether the affairs of the company or the shares carrying more than 50 per cent. of its total voting power were at no time during the relevant previous year controlled or held by five or less persons, no account will be taken of a company in which the public are substantially interested or a 100 per cent subsidiary of such a company which holds not less than 50 per cent (or 40 per cent. as the case may be) of the equity shares of the first-mentioned company.

Sub-clause (iv) of clause 4 seeks to amend clause (22) of section 2 of the Income-tax Act. The effect of the amendment would be that the distribution received by the shareholder of a company on the reduction of its capital or on its liquidation would, to the extent such distribution is attributable to the capitalised profits of the company from which bonus shares have been issued by it to its equity shareholders after 31st March, 1964, would not be chargeable to tax in the hands of the shareholder as his dividend income.

The effect of this amendment will be that a foreign technician having specialised knowledge and experience in constructional or manufacturing operations or in mining or in the generation or distribution of power who is now exempt from tax on his salary for a period of 36 months from the date of his arrival in India and from further tax on the tax paid by his employer on his salary for the following 24 months, will henceforward be entitled to exemption from tax on the tax paid by his employer for a period of 60 months following the expiry of the initial period of 36 months, provided that the approval of the Central Government is obtained to his continuing to remain in employment in India for the extended period.

The actual cost of planting for the purposes of the development allowance will include cost of preparing the land, cost of seeds, cuttings and nurseries and also the cost of upkeep of the area for a period of 4 years including the previous year in which the land was prepared. The actual cost of planting for the purpose of this allowance will be subject to a ceiling of Rs. 12,500 per hectare if the land is in a hilly area and Rs. 10,000 per hectare if the land is in any other area. These figures are approximately equivalent to Rs. 5,000 per acre and Rs. 4,000 per acre respectively. The development allowance will be admissible in respect of the expenditure on planting commenced after 31st March, 1965 and, in respect of planting in replacement of bushes in an existing area where the planting has commenced after 31st March, 1965 and is completed before 1st April, 1970. The effect of one of these amendments would be that the expenditure incurred by companies in providing any benefit or amenity or perquisite to their employees whose income chargeable under the head "Salaries" does not exceed Rs. 7,500 would not be taken into account for the purposes of the aforesaid provision. The effect of the other amendment would be that in computing the expenditure incurred by a company in providing any benefit, amenity or perquisite to its employees for the purposes of the aforesaid provision, the perquisite represented by the tax paid by the company on the salary income of a foreign technician in its employment [which is exempt from tax in the hands of the technician under section 10(6) (vii) of the Act], and any expenditure incurred by a company for promoting family planning amongst its employees, would also not be taken into account.

Under this section, an individual who is not a citizen of India or a company which is not an Indian company transferring any shares held by him or it in an Indian company and becoming liable to pay tax on the capital gains arising out of such transfer will be entitled to a credit of the whole or part of the tax so payable in proportion to the amount of the proceeds of the transfer as reduced by the cost of acquisition of the transferred shares, which are re-invested in any of the approved investments within a period of two years from the date of the transfer of the shares.

Clause 20 seeks to introduce a new Chapter VIA in the Income-tax Act containing provisions relating to deductions to be made in computing the total income.

Under section 80A of the proposed Chapter, an individual or Hindu undivided family will be entitled to a deduction of an amount equal to 50 per cent. of the aggregate of the qualifying sums in respect of payments towards life insurance premia, contributions to provident funds and superannuation funds and deposits in certain cumulative time deposit accounts in the post office etc. This provision will replace the existing provision in section 87 of the Act relating to the allowance of rebate in respect of such sums and will come into effect from the assessment year 1966-67 in the case of assessees whose total income assessable for the assessment year 1965-66 includes any income chargeable under the head "Salaries" from which tax is deducted or deductible at source in accordance with the provisions of section 192, and from the assessment year 1965-66 in the case of other assessees. The monetary limit of the qualifying amount in respect of the sums referred to above will be Rs. 12,500 in the case of an individual and Rs. 25,000 in the case of a Hindu undivided family, as against the existing monetary limit of Rs. 10,000 in the case of an individual and Rs. 20,000 in the case of a Hindu undivided family for the purpose of rebate of tax.

Under the new section 80B, an individual or a Hindu undivided family resident in India will be entitled to a deduction of a specified sum in the computation of the total income where expenditure has been incurred by him or it on the medical treatment (including nursing) of a physically or mentally disabled person who is a relative of the individual or is a member of the Hindu undivided family and is dependent on the individual or the Hindu undivided family for his support. The deduction will be admissible only where the total income of the individual or the Hindu undivided family as computed before making any deduction under this Chapter and before deducting any annuity deposit under section 280O does not exceed Rs. 20,000 and will be reduced in either case by the income, if any, of the disabled dependant.

The new section 80C provides for relief subject to certain conditions in respect of premiums paid by partners of registered firms of chartered accountants, architects, solicitors or lawyers, under an approved contract, or contributions made to an approved fund, for the purpose of securing retirement annuities in old age.

The relief will be by way of deduction of the amount of the premiums not exceeding one-tenth of the total income of the individual for the year (subject to certain adjustments) or Rs. 5,000, whichever is less, in computing his total income.

The annuity when received will be treated as earned income to the extent to which it is attributable to the amount of deduction allowed under this section, and charged to tax accordingly.

The approval of annuity contracts and funds will be given by the Commissioner subject to certain rules and conditions.

The new section 80D contains definition of certain terms used in this Chapter.

Clause 21 seeks to amend section 84 of the Income-tax Act. This amendment is consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

This amendment is consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 25 seeks to amend section 87 of the Income-tax Act. The amendment sought to be made by sub-clause (i) is consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill, while that sought to be made by sub-clause (ii) is consequential to the introduction of new section 80A in the Act under clause 20 of the Bill.

Clause 26 seeks to amend section 88 of the Income-tax Act. The amendments in sub-clause (i) and sub-clause (iii) are consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill. The effect of the amendments under sub-clause (ii) and sub-clause (iv) will be that the assessee will be entitled to a rebate of tax in respect of donations given for the renovation or repair of any temple, mosque, gurdwara, church or other place which is notified by the Central Government in the Official Gazette to be a place of public workship of renown throughout any State or States. At present the rebate of tax is available only where the temple, mosque, etc. is notified by the Central Government to be of historic, archaeological or artistic importance. The monetary limit upto which such donations will qualify for the rebate is also sought to be raised from Rs. 2 lakhs to Rs. 5 lakhs.

Clauses 27 and 28 seek to amend sections 90 and 91 respectively of the Income-tax Act. These amendments are consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

These amendments seek to remove the charge of super-tax and consequentially, to omit the provisions relating to rebate or relief in respect of super-tax, and to substitute the levy of super-tax on the undistributed profits of certain companies by the levy of income-tax thereon. Chapter XI will hereafter contain only the provisions relating to charge of additional income-tax with reference to the undistributed income of certain companies.

Clause 30 seeks to amend section 104 of the Income-tax Act. The amendment in sub-clause (i) is consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill. The amendment in sub-clause (iii) secures that a non-trading company (other than an investment company) which is liable to the additional income-tax on undistributed income will pay such tax at 25 per cent. of the undistributed income, while a trading company will pay such tax at 37 per cent.

The amendment in sub-clause (ii) is consequential to the amendment in sub-clause (iii).

Clause 31 seeks to amend section 109 of the Income-tax Act. The amendment in sub-clause (iii) secures that in the case of a non-trading company which is liable to the additional income-tax on undistributed income at the rate of 25 per cent. under the amendment in clause 30, the statutory percentage of distributable income will continue to be 60 per cent. until the accumulated profits and reserves of the company exceed twice the aggregate of the paid-up capital and loan capital, which, is the property of the share-holders, or twice the value of the fixed assets, whichever is greater.

Clause 36 seeks to amend section 114 of the Income-tax Act. Sub-clause (ii) (b) seeks to introduce a second proviso in sub-clause (ii) of clause (b) of section 114. The rest of the amendments sought to be made by this clause are consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 37 seeks to substitute section 115 of the Income-tax Act by a new section. If the liquidator either fails to notify the Income-tax Officer of his appointment within the time specified or fails to set aside the amount intimated to him by the Income-tax Officer as being sufficient to provide for the tax liability of the company or parts with any of the assets of the company or property in his hands in contravention of the above provisions, he shall be personally liable for the payment of the tax which the company would be liable to pay or, as the case may be, the amount intimated to him by the Income-tax Officer.

Clauses 42 to 52 seek to amend the provisions of the Income-tax Act in consequence of the amendment under clause 29 or clause 35 of the Bill.

Clause 53 seeks to amend sections 213 to 217, 220, 243 and 244 of the Income-tax Act to secure that the rate of interest chargeable on delayed payments of tax and the interest payable by Government on delayed refunds will be six per cent. as against the existing rate of 4 per cent. per annum.

The term of such imprisonment is subject to maximum of two years and a minimum of six months as in sections 277 and 278.

Clause 59 seeks to amend section 279 of the Income-tax Act. This amendment is consequential on the insertion of the new section 276A under clause 58 of the Bill.

Clauses 60 and 61 seek to make amendments to the Income-tax Act which are consequential on the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 62 seeks to introduce a new Chapter XXIIB in the Income-tax Act to provide for the grant of tax credit certificates for different purposes.

New section 280Z in this Chapter provides for the grant of a tax credit certificate to an individual or Hindu undivided family in respect of amounts subscribed and paid by him or it to an eligible issue of capital by a public company. The amount of the tax credit certificate will be calculated at graded rates with reference to the total amount paid during a financial year by the individual or Hindu undivided family and will be limited to a maximum of Rs. 1,250 which is reached when the total payment is Rs. 35,000. A tax credit certificate for the amount so calculated will be granted for the financial year in which the payment is first made and for each of the three following financial years subject to the condition that the relevant shares are held by the individual or Hindu undivided family till the end of the respective financial years, and proportionately reduced if the whole or part of such shares are sold during any of these three years.

New section 280ZA provides for the grant of a tax credit certificate to a public company which shifts, with the prior approval of the Central Board of Direct Taxes, its industrial undertaking from an urban area (to be notified by the Central Government) to any other area, and incurs liability for payment of tax on the 'Capital gains' derived from the sale of lands and buildings (or any rights therein) used for the purposes of its business in the urban area. The amount of the tax credit certificate will be calculated as a proportion of the tax payable on the 'Capital gains', which the expenditure incurred by the company in acquiring lands or constructing buildings for the purposes of its business in the area and on the shifting of its machinery or plant and other effects and transferring its establishment to such area, within a period of three years from the date of the Board's approval to the shifting, bears to the 'Capital gains' derived from the sale of its lands and buildings in the urban area as stated above. If the investment in lands and buildings in the new area, including the expenditure on shifting, as stated above, equals or exceeds such 'Capital gains', the tax credit certificate will be granted for the whole of the amount of the tax payable on the 'Capital gains'. The period of three years may be extended by the Board in suitable cases. If the company transfers the lands or buildings in the new area within a period of five years to a person, other than Government or a public sector corporation, an amount equal to one-half of the amount of the tax credit certificate will be taken back from the company.

New section 280ZB provides for the grant of a tax credit certificate to a company engaged in the manufacture or production of specified articles, where the company is liable to pay for any of the five assessment years, 1966-67 to 1970-71, an aggregate amount of income-tax and sur-tax in excess of the corresponding amount which it is liable to pay for the base year, namely, assessment year 1965-66. The amount of the tax credit certificate will be calculated at 20 per cent. of such excess for each of the five years mentioned above. In the case of a company which is not liable to pay any tax for the assessment year 1965-66, but becomes so liable for any but the last of the following five years mentioned above, such year will be treated as the 'base year' for that company, and the tax credit certificate will be granted for 20 per cent. of the excess of the aggregate tax which it becomes liable to pay for any subsequent assessment year (within the five-year period mentioned above) over the aggregate tax of such 'base year'. The amount of the tax credit certificate for any year will not, in any case, exceed ten per cent. of the aggregate tax for that year.

An amount equal to the amount of the tax credit certificate granted under this section should be utilised by the company for the repayment of loans taken by the company from any financial institutions to be notified in this behalf by the Central Government or for redemption of its debentures, to enable it to have the benefit of the tax credit certificate.

New section 280ZC provides for the grant of a tax credit certificate to any person who exports any goods or merchandise out of India after 28th February, 1965 and receives the sale proceeds thereof in India through recognised foreign exchange channels. The amount of the tax credit certificate will be calculated with reference to the amount of such proceeds at the rate which will be specified in this behalf in the scheme to be made by the Central Government for this purpose. The rate will in no case exceed 15 per cent.

New section 280ZD provides for the grant of a tax credit certificate to any person who manufactures or produces any goods for an amount calculated with reference to the excess amount of duty of Central excise on such goods which he pays in any of the financial years 1965-66 to 1969-70 over the amount of such duty which he has paid on such goods during the base year. The rate at which the amount of the certificate is to be calculated will be specified in the scheme, but it shall not exceed 25 per cent. of the excess stated above. The base year for this purpose is the financial year 1964-65, but in the case of an undertaking which was not in production during that year, it will be any subsequent financial year in which it begins production.

An amount equal to the amount of the tax credit certificate granted under this section should be utilised by the person for the repayment of loans taken by the person from any financial institutions to be notified in this behalf by the Central Government (including in the case of a company the redemption of its debentures) to enable it to have the benefit of the certificate.

The amount shown on a tax credit certificate granted to any person under the above sections will be adjusted against any existing liability of such person under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 or the Income-tax Act, 1961 or any such liability arising within a period of twelve months from the date on which the certificate is produced before the Income-tax Officer, and the amount, if any, remaining after such adjustment will be refunded to the person on the expiry of that period.

The Central Government has been empowered to frame a scheme or schemes making detailed provisions for the implementation of the provisions relating to grant of tax credit certificates for various purposes. The scheme will, inter alia, contain provisions as to the manner in which and the authority by whom the certificate will be issued.

Clause 63 seeks to amend section 294 of the Income-tax Act. This amendment is consequential to the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 64 seeks to amend section 295 of the Income-tax Act. This amendment is consequential to the insertion of a new section 80A in the Act under clause 20 of the Bill.

Clause 65 seeks to amend Rule 3 of the First Schedule to the Income-tax Act. This amendment is consequential on the amendment under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 66 seeks to amend the Fourth Schedule to the Income-tax Act. One of the amendments seeks to provide that no tax should be deducted at source under rule 6 of Part B, from a payment which is exempt under section 10(13) of the Income-tax Act. The rest of the amendments are consequential to the amendments under clause 20 or clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 67 seeks to introduce a new Fifth Schedule in the Income-tax Act, specifying the list of articles and things for the purposes of the allowance of development rebate on machinery or plant at the enhanced rate of 25 per cent. prescribed under the amendment to the Income-tax Act in clause 8.

Clause 68 seeks to make a provision for voluntary disclosures of income which a person has failed to disclose in a return of income for any assessment year filed by him before 1st March, 1965 under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 or the Income-tax Act, 1961, or which has escaped assessment for any assessment year for which an assessment has been made before 1st March, 1965 under either of the said Acts or for the assessment of which no proceedings under either of the said Acts have been taken before 1st March, 1965. Such disclosures may be made any time during the months of March, April and May, 1965, but not thereafter. The amount declared under this provision will be charged to income-tax at the rate of 60 per cent, but if the tax is paid during the month of March, 1965 at the rate of 57 per cent. of the declared amount, there will be no further liability to tax in respect of that amount. The tax on the amount declared may be paid any time during a period of six months from the date of declaration, provided the payment is guaranteed by a scheduled bank or Central Government securities sufficient to cover the amount of tax are assigned to the President of India for this purpose. The securities will be taken at their market value on the date of assignment.

The declaration under this section should be made to the Commissioner and should, inter alia, contain particulars of the year or years in which the income was earned, and the form in which the declared amount is held and the location of the relevant assets.

Where an amount is declared under this section and the tax thereon is paid, the balance may be credited by the declarant to his books of account or other record, and if he does so, the amount declared shall not be included in his total income for any assessment under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 or the Income-tax Act, 1961 or the Excess Profits Tax Act, 1940, or the Business Profits Tax Act, 1947, or the Super Profits Tax Act, 1963 or the Companies (Profits) Surtax Act, 1964.

Full secrecy will be ensured in respect of the particulars contained in any declaration or record of any proceedings under this section.

Clause 69 seeks to amend the Estate Duty Act, 1953.

Sub-clauses (i), (ii) (a), (iii) (a), (iv) (a) and (v) (a) respectively seek to reduce the period specified in sections 9, 10, 11, 12 and 22 for the inclusion in his estate of property gifted by the deceased during his life time from two years to one year. Sub-clause (ix) seeks to make a similar amendment in section 46(2) in respect of debts or incumbrances repaid or discharged by the deceased where but for the repayment or discharge the liability would have been precluded from deduction in the computation of the net principal value of his estate.

Sub-clauses (ii)(b), (iii)(b), (iv)(b) and (v)(b) respectively seek to amend sections 10, 11, 12 and 22 to secure that where the deceased had lived in a house or part thereof which he had gifted, or otherwise disposed of, in favour of the spouse, son, daughter, brother or sister, and there is no right of residence reserved or secured to him under the relevant disposition or under any collateral disposition, the property will not be included in his estate.

Sub-clause (vi) seeks to insert a new section 29A in the Estate Duty Act to secure that estate duty shall not be attracted in respect of any pension payable on the death of an employee to his widow or other dependants under the relevant pension rules of the Central Government, a State Government, a local authority or a public sector corporation or in respect of any annuity or pension payable to the widow or dependants of the employee from a superannuation fund approved under the Indian Income-tax Act, 1922 or the Income-tax Act, 1961 or from a superannuation or pension fund established by international organisations to be notified by the Central Government. There will be a limit of Rs. 15,000 per annum on the annuity or pension payable out of an approved superannuation fund which qualifies for this exemption.

Sub-clause (vii)(b) seeks to insert a new clause (o) in section 33(1) of the Estate Duty Act to secure that property gifted by the deceased to the spouse, son, daughter, brother or sister, will not be included in the estate of the donor if he dies after five years from the date of the gift, provided that the property is either chargeable to gift-tax under the Gift-tax Act, 1958, or is not chargeable under section 5 of that Act for the assessment year 1964-65 or any subsequent assessment year.

The amendments in sub-clauses (vii)(a) and (viii) are consequential to the amendments in the other sub-clauses.

Clause 70 seeks to amend the Wealth-tax Act, 1957.

Sub-clause (i) seeks to introduce a new clause (xx) in sub-section (1) of section 5 of the Wealth-tax Act to secure that where the assessee is the owner of any shares subscribed and paid for by him and such shares form part of the initial issue of the equity share capital made after the 28th February, 1965 by a company established with the object of carrying on an industrial undertaking in India, the value of such shares shall not be chargeable to wealth-tax for a period of five successive assessment years commencing with the assessment year next following the date of such issue.

Sub-clause (ii) seeks to amend Part I of the Schedule to the Wealth-tax Act to secure the levy of an additional wealth-tax on assets, being buildings or lands other than business premises or any right in such buildings or lands, situated in areas with a population exceeding 1 lakh, included in the net wealth of an individual or a Hindu undivided family at graded rates on the slab system. This additional wealth-tax will be calculated at the specified rates on the total value of such assets which exceeds certain initial exempt amounts prescribed having regard to the population of the area in which the assets are situated.

Clause 71 seeks to amend the Gift-tax Act.

Sub-clause (i) seeks to insert a new clause (va) in section 5(1) of the Gift-tax Act to secure exemption from gift-tax to a gift made to a temple, mosque, gurdwara, church or other place which has been notified by the Central Government for the purposes of section 86(6) of the Income-tax Act or a gift of property by way of settlement on trust where the income from property is, according to the deed of settlement, to be used exclusively in connection with such a temple, etc.

Sub-clause (ii) seeks to introduce a new section 18A in Chapter IX of the Gift-tax Act to secure that where any stamp duty has been paid on an instrument of gift of property in respect of which the gift-tax payable exceeds Rs. 1,000, the assessee shall be entitled to a deduction from the gift-tax payable by him of an amount equal to the stamp duty so paid subject to a maximum of one-half of the sum by which the gift-tax payable before making the deduction for stamp duty exceeds Rs. 1,000.

Clause 72 seeks to introduce a new section 4A in the Preference Shares (Regulation of Dividends) Act, 1960, and to make some consequential amendments to certain other provisions of that Act. The new section 4A referred to above seeks to provide that in respect of preference shares, the stipulated dividend on which is subject to a deduction by the company concerned of the income-tax payable by it, the company shall not make a deduction in excess of 25 per cent. of the amount of the stipulated dividend on such shares,—25 per cent. being the existing rate at which income-tax is chargeable on companies.

The other amendments under this clause are consequential to the amendments to the Income-tax Act, 1961 under clause 29 of the Bill.

Clause 73 seeks to amend section 32 of the Unit Trust of India Act, 1963.

These amendments are consequential to the amendment to the Income-tax Act (under clause 29 of the Bill) relating to the removal of the charge of super-tax. Under one of the existing provisions of the aforesaid section, an individual unit holder is allowed to deduct the qualifying amount of the dividend received on the units (viz., dividends not exceeding a sum of Rs. 1,000) from his total income, normally, for the purpose of income-tax only and not for super-tax. The deduction is allowed both for income-tax and super-tax, only where the individual's income would not attract super-tax but for the inclusion therein of the amount of qualifying dividend. With the integration of super-tax with income-tax, a deduction of the amount of the qualifying dividend would, however, result in a tax relief in respect of the element of super-tax also. The proposed amendment, therefore, secures that on the integration of super-tax with income-tax, the tax relief in terms of the consolidated income-tax would be limited to what the individual would be entitled to under the existing provisions of the aforesaid Act.

Under another existing provision in section 32 of the aforesaid Act, individuals are exempt from deduction of income-tax at source from the dividends paid to them by the Unit Trust. When super-tax gets integrated into income-tax, the effect of the existing provision would be that non-residents would be exempt from the deduction of the element of super-tax also, from the dividends received by them from the Unit Trust of India. To avoid this position, it is sought to amend the relevant provision to provide that in the case of non-resident individuals, income-tax shall be deducted at source from the dividends received by them on the units, at the rate of 15 per cent.

Clause 74 seeks to amend certain provisions of the Companies (Profits) Surtax Act, 1964.

Sub-clauses (i) and (ii).—The amendments under these sub-clauses are consequential to the amendments to the Income-tax Act, under clause 29 of the Bill, relating to the removal of the charge of super-tax.

Sub-clause (iii)(a) introduces a provision limiting the aggregate amount of income-tax and surtax on companies of certain categories to 70 per cent. of their total income. If the aggregate amount of such tax liability is found to be in excess of the aforesaid limit, the surtax otherwise payable by the company will be reduced by the excess amount. For the purpose of this provision, income-tax will include the amount of income-tax payable by the company with reference to the amount of the dividends declared or distributed by it in respect of its equity capital, but will not include the income-tax payable by it with reference to bonus shares or bonus issued by it to its shareholders in any year.

Sub-clause (iii)(b) adds certain new items to the list of articles in paragraph 2 of the Third Schedule to the Companies (Profits) Surtax Act, the profits derived from the production or manufacture of which qualify for a rebate of surtax.

Clause 75, read with the Third Schedule, seeks to increase the basic import duties on certain items. The changes are:—

(i) the duty on certain paints, colours and painters' materials is proposed to be raised by 15% ad valorem;

(ii) the duty on essential oils, certain varieties of perfumery and paper is proposed to be raised by 25% ad valorem;

(iii) the basic customs duty on raw cotton is proposed to be raised from 26 Paise per kilogram to 50 Paise per kilogram;

(iv) the duty on art silk yarn and thread is proposed to be raised by about 20% ad valorem;

(v) the duty on steel tinplates is proposed to be raised by about 18% ad valorem;

(vi) the duty on stainless steel plates and sheets is proposed to be raised by 70% ad valorem; and

(vii) the duty on sodium hydrosulphite is proposed to be raised by 60% ad valorem.

Clause 76 seeks to continue up to the 31st day of March, 1966 the existing surcharge on customs duties.

Clause 77—

Sub-clauses (1) to (5) seek to provide for levy of regulatory duty of customs up to the 15th day of May, 1966 on a flexible basis within the specified ceiling rates, for regulating or bringing greater economy in imports.

Sub-clause (6) seeks to continue up to the passing of this Act the regulatory duties of customs levied under the Finance Act, 1964 read with notifications issued under that Act and the Customs Act, 1962.

Clause 78 seeks to maintain for another year the status quo in regard to commitments under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Clause 79—

Sub-clause (a) seeks to substitute an ad valorem rate for the existing specific rates of duty on cigarettes;

Sub-clause (b) seeks to raise the rate of duty on steel ingots;

Sub-clause (c) seeks to raise the rates of duty on copper and copper alloys and their manufactures;

Sub-clause (d) seeks to raise the rates of duty on certain Iron or Steel products and also to modify the existing tariff classification.

Sub-clause (e) seeks to revise the tariff classification of certain manufactures of aluminium; and Sub-clause (f) seeks to raise the rate of duty on tin plate and tinned sheets.

Clause 80 seeks to continue up to the 31st day of March, 1966 the existing special duties of excise.

Clause 81—

Sub-clauses (1) to (5) seek to provide for levy of regulatory duty of excise up to the 15th day of May, 1966 on a flexible basis within the specified ceiling rates, for regulating or bringing greater economy in consumption.

Sub-clause (6) seeks to continue up to the passing of this Act the regulatory duties of excise levied under the Finance Act, 1964 read with any exemption notification.

Clause 82 like section 63 of the Finance Act, 1964 provides that salt shall be duty free for another year.

Clause 83 seeks to substitute ad valorem rate for the existing specific rates of duty on cigarettes in the Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

New section 280ZE proposed to be inserted by clause 62 empowers the Central Government to frame one or more schemes to be called tax credit certificate scheme or schemes in relation to tax credit certificates to be granted under Chapter XXIIB. The various matters which among others may be provided for in any such scheme have been specified in clauses (a) to (i) of sub-section (2) of that section. Such matters, inter alia, relate to the form and manner in which, and the authority to which, applications for such certificates may be made, the authority by which such certificates may be granted, the determination of the rights and obligations of persons to whom such certificates have been granted, etc.

Clause 2 (5) (d), proposed new sections 33A, 80A and 80C empower the Board to make rules in relation to the matters specified therein.

The aforesaid matters are matters of procedure and administrative detail. It is hardly practicable for these matters of detail or procedure to be provided in the Bill itself. The delegation of legislative power is thus of a normal character.
